

Getting to College – Affordably

Every student has different needs and so student leadership across the District asked the district-wide Transportation Management Committee to provide an outline of options that will help students find the right transportation choice for themselves.

Get the Right Bus Pass!

Discounted ORCA cards are available to qualifying students each quarter.

After purchasing an ORCA Card from the Cashiers office, please go online and register your ORCA card. While online, be sure to research the best option for you and your budget (i.e. a monthly regional or Puget pass)."

| PASS OPTION | ESTIMATED COST |
|---|--|
| Seattle Community Colleges Student ORCA Card | Pay $125 for a $200 purse card each quarter This becomes your ORCA card and should be registered in your name. |
| Unlimited Monthly Pass | You can purchase monthly passes with your ORCA card value Do your research and get the one that is best for you. See the product list on the Orcacard.com site: https://www.orcacard.com/ERG-Seattle/p3_002st.do?m=30 King County offers the Puget Pass (held on your ORCA Card) A regional transit pass valid for unlimited rides in the valid month. For example: Pay $90 for one calendar month to ride in the city. Zone 1 only, which is within the Seattle city limits. http://metro.kingcounty.gov/fares/ |
| ORCA Card Waiver Options | Low Income: The only ORCA agencies that currently offer a low-income reduced fare are Kitsap Transit and Everett Transit. (King Country Metro's is coming in 2015 sometime.) Senior & Disabled via Regional Reduced Fare Permits: http://metro.kingcounty.gov/tops/accessible/reduced-fare-permits.html |

Other Sustainable Transportation Options

Ride the bus, walk, or carpool to save some cash and reduce pollution. Seattle Colleges care about sustainability and welcome all ideas to reduce single occupant vehicle rides to campus.

Driving to School – and Parking

Your parking options depend on what college you attend. You can find all the information you need from your college Transportation Management Website.
